

Siemens Technology to Business Center (TTB) The 2012 New Ventures Forum

What is it? The New Ventures Forum is an opportunity for recent business plan competitors and early-stage startup companies to learn how to engage successfully with large companies. All expenses will be paid by Siemens TTB for a few selected companies (2 per company).

When and where is it? June 6, 7,8th 2012 in Berkeley, CA

Who can apply? Early-stage companies and past business plan participants that are located in the US. US-only companies at this time please.

How do I start? By March 11th, please email one or two paragraphs addressing the following items to ttb.venture.forum.scr@siemens.com

- 1) Please explain what is the problem you are solving
- 2) Please explain how this problem is being solved today
- 3) What makes your idea better than today's solution
- 4) How is this related to Siemens

This step is optional but highly recommended – you will receive feedback.

How do I apply? By April 8th, please email a business pitch (12 to 15 slides) that covers at least the following to ttb.venture.forum.scr@siemens.com

- 1) Technology overview
- 2) Go-to-market strategy
- 3) Competitive advantages
- 4) Next few milestones for the company (18 to 24 months) that would cover technology, business, and funding
- 5) Possible collaborations scenarios with Siemens
- 6) Information about the company founders

Why should I participate? Interact with other startups, Siemens executives, venture capitalists from silicon valley, and others to learn:

- How to get a large company interested as a customer or partner
- Negotiating with a large company (intellectual property rights, development contracts, investments, prototyping)
- What to do if things go wrong
- Why and when to engage with Siemens
- How to approach Siemens, and help on putting together a win-win partnership

Important Dates	March 11	Interested applicants may submit a one page application for feedback by this date
	April 8	Full proposal submittal deadline
	April 23	Notify forum participants
	June 6, 7, 8	New Ventures Forum
